

Inclusive Supports in Education

► DAY FIVE

► 9:00-3:30

► Education Assistant Program

► Instructor: Leonie Stephens

BURNABY
CCE
Community & Continuing Education

Today's Agenda

- Historical Wrongs
 - Reconciliation and Education
 - First People's Perspectives
 - Assignment: Indigenous Reflection
-

Please Note:

- There will be video's shown of peoples experiences in history. This is sensitive information that may be triggering for some individuals.
 - Please take breaks when needed and talk to the instructor if you have questions, need support, or need access to a quiet space
-

What Does Being Indigenous Mean?

CBC News – June 21, 2017 (2:46)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=X-zwP6q1GkM&ab_channel=CBCNews

First People's Principles of Learning

Today we will focus on learning about the First People's Principles of Learning

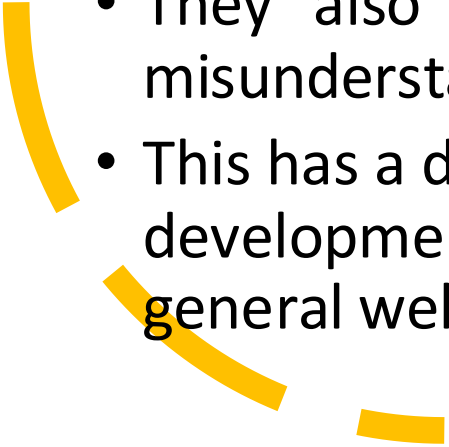

- The First Peoples Principles of Learning is a Framework for approaching teaching and learning that all staff working within schools are expected to utilize for all students not just those who identify as Indigenous
- We will watch a variety of videos on this topic followed by discussion
- Please record key points (in your Journal) that resonate with you personally as we are watching and discussing the video series

First Nations Principles of Learning

- The curriculum extends Indigenous perspectives and knowledge into the entire learning experience rather than into specific courses or grade levels as was done in the previous curriculum
- It is not about content; it is about a way of thinking
- The First Peoples Principles of Learning support educators in how to represent Indigenous learning for all students, not just those of Indigenous heritage

Residential Schools

- We cannot begin today without considering the terrible impact that residential schools has had on Indigenous people, their families and their culture.
 - The Indigenous students we work with today continue to be directly impacted by the cultural and personal degradations that have been suffered by those in their families and communities
 - They also often endure bullying and harassment, along with misunderstanding, as a result of attitudes of nonindigenous people
 - This has a direct and cumulative impact on the family unit as well as the development of positive individual self-esteem, self-confidence, health, general well-being and the ability to learn
-

Residential Schools

Historica CaNada-August 23, 2017 (1:07)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9TeW4hW1QD0>

Intergenerational Trauma: Residential Schools

Historica Canada/March 9, 2020 (2:19)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IWeH_SDhEYU

Namwayut: We are all one: Truth and Reconciliation in Canada

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2zuRQmwaREY>

Break Out Discussion on the Principles of Learning

- It is important to try to learn about and to understand how history has impacted an entire culture.
- We collectively share the obligation to support Indigenous children and youth in their personal and unique journeys to break free from the impact of years of atrocities
- By supporting each individual student the best you can, you will support these communities to move forward to a more positive future
- What are your personal thoughts that come to mind at this point in today's lesson?

Indigenous Principles of Learning

We learn about these principles:

- To better understand indigenous culture
- To learn effective methods for instructing all students, not just those of indigenous backgrounds
- To support Truth and Reconciliation by taking positive action in the present and future with the intent to repair the damage initiated by the bureaucratic systems of the past and perpetuated through neglect, misunderstanding, ignorance and prejudice by the bureaucracy and the citizens of Canada

FIRST PEOPLES

PRINCIPLES OF LEARNING

Learning ultimately supports the well-being of the self, the family, the community, the land, the spirits, and the ancestors.

Learning is holistic, reflexive, reflective, experiential, and relational (focused on connectedness, on reciprocal relationships, and a sense of place).

Learning involves recognizing the consequences of one's actions.

Learning involves generational roles and responsibilities.

Learning recognizes the role of indigenous knowledge.

Learning is embedded in memory, history, and story.

Learning involves patience and time.

Learning requires exploration of one's identity.

Learning involves recognizing that some knowledge is sacred and only shared with permission and/or in certain situations.

For First Peoples classroom resources
visit: www.fnesc.ca

Discussion

After reading the First People's Principles of Learning share your thoughts with a partner

- What thoughts come to mind? Do you have any personal connections?
-

First Peoples Principles of Learning: SD67

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_9bE1cZtvQI&ab_channel=DifferentLens

Principles of Learning

Did you notice...

- Experiences that take students out of the traditional classroom and help build connection and appreciation of our natural world
- Engaging learning opportunities that involve “actively doing” rather than “passively receiving”
- Embracing respect for elders and the passing on of knowledge and values from generation to generation
- Opportunity to explore one’s own identity and appreciate individuality and uniqueness within our Canadian society
- Being respectful of cultural knowledge that may be sacred in how it is explored and learned

First Peoples Principles of Learning

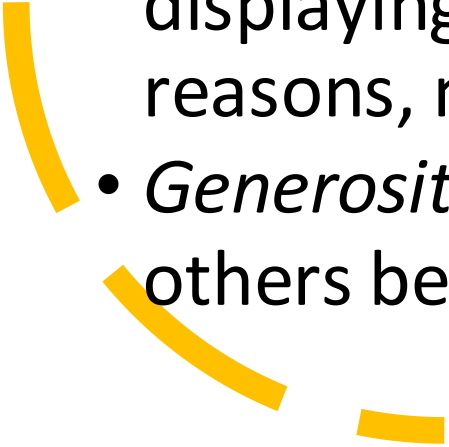

Martin Brokenleg

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0PgrfCVct_A

Steps to Build a Resilient Person

- Belonging: Built through trust, inclusion, warmth, connections and friendship
 - Mastery: The desire and confidence to succeed by discovering what you can do through multiple experiences
 - Independence: Taking responsibility for self through learning and displaying self-discipline; making the right decisions for the right reasons, not because someone is watching; empowerment
 - Generosity: Being able to contribute to others willingly, putting others before self, a measure of a person's "goodness"
-

Break Out Discussion and Task

- Discuss the highlights of the video and prepare to share your group discussion with the class

Aboriginal World Views and Perspectives in the Classroom

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dZjshXqEk8o>

Video: Educators from around BC are speaking about the importance of including Aboriginal education throughout the education system.

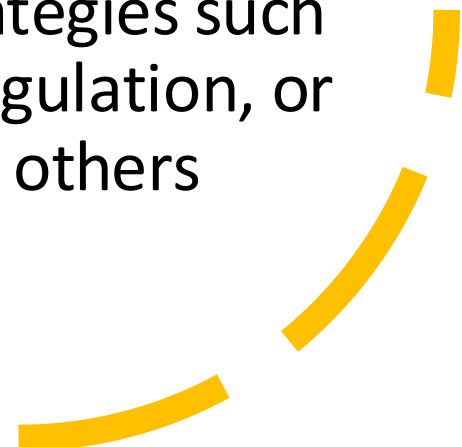

Quotes to Discuss in Small Groups

- Educators play a critical role in the lives of our children
- Our children (and generations before them) are imprinted by their experiences in formal education as well as in community education
- Educators have to be the leaders
- Honestly, if it is not you who else is it going to be
- Educators influence and provide opportunity for growth
- Share out one key comment from your group

What is the Purpose of Education?

- To develop the attitudes, knowledge base and skillsets needed in order to successfully move forward in life
- To ensure every student graduates from school with personal dignity intact, purpose and direction for their own life, and options for what their next steps will be
- To understand that completing school improves one's possibilities and that without it, these possibilities are diminished
- To ensure that all students feel successful, capable, valued, empowered, and have a positive sense of belonging to the educational community that they are part of

How Do Good Educators Make This Happen?

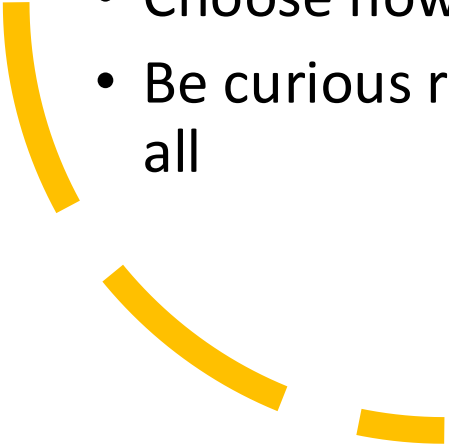

- Good educators use creativity, sense of justice and care, passion, knowledge and skills to support students so that the purpose of education is fulfilled for each student
 - Good educators don't lose track of purpose in the mundane, day-to-day events of school and remain conscious of potential negative interferences in the classroom atmosphere
 - Good educators remain conscious of their own emotional regulation: utilizing strategies such as a reflective journal, Zones of Regulation, or private conversations with trusted others
-

How Do Good Educators Make This Happen?

- Good educators stay up to date on educational resources, techniques and issues
- Good educators use authentic First Peoples resources available at www.fnesc.ca to ensure information is historically and culturally correct

Words of Advice

- Do not offer feedback on curriculum to teachers, especially while on practicum – report serious concerns to your EA Practicum supervisor to deal with
 - Once employed, you will be forging a collaborative relationship with the teacher to support students in that class
 - You will be following the Codes of Conduct provided by your District, School and Union
 - Choose how you will deal with any situation respectfully and professionally
 - Be curious rather than be perceived as judgmental, officious, angry or a know-it-all
-

Indigenous Reflection - Assignment

Not everyone received the same education on Indigenous history, culture, principals and perspective when they went to school.

Write 2-3 paragraphs on one of the following topics, discuss previous personal understanding and/or your new knowledge, take away points after today's class. Submit on Canvas. You may use any one of the following topics/resources that we have covered in the class today:

- 1) What does being indigenous mean
- 2) First people's principles & education
- 3) Intergenerational trauma & the effect of residential schools
- 4) Truth & reconciliation